- La parte della produzione scritta si divide in DUE parti. Nella prima parte si chiede di scrivere un testo compreso tra 70 e 100 parole. Nella seconda parte si chiede di scrivere un testo tra 100-120 parole. Normalmente si chiede di scrivere delle lettere.
  - Ora vediamo alcuni esempi pratici di scrittura del livello B1.
  - Prima di procedere, ti invito a scaricare il pdf sulla parte di Writing. In questo modo, sarai in grado di seguire questa lezione con più facilità e svolgere gli esercizi in modo più accessibile.

WRITING PART 1

Read the following advertisement in a newspaper. Write a letter to the newspaper to enter the competition.

Holiday Competition

We have a new competition. The lucky winner will get free tickets for two people to anywhere in the world. All you have to do to enter, is to write a letter to the editor.

Good luck everybody!

Say:

- where you want to go
- who you will take with you
- why you want to go there.

Write between 70 – 100 words.

COME SVOLGERE QUESTO ESERCIZIO?

- Leggi la trama molto attentamente, per non andare fuori traccia. Presta molta attenzione a che tipo di testo devi scrivere (è quasi sempre una lettera a livello B1)
  - Non far MAI copia e incolla di quello che viene scritto nell'insegna. Usa le tue parole il più possibile.
  - Non superare il limite massimo di parole.
  - Prima di scrivere il testo completo, fai brain-storming su un foglio di brutta. In questo modo metterai giù una serie di idee (con vocaboli ricercati e tempi verbali più elaborati) per non avere nessun blocco durante la scrittura.
  - Ricordati di scrivere il testo prima della scadenza del tempo a disposizione.

PART 2

100-120 PAROLE

Write a letter to your friend about a book or story you like. Explain why you like it and why he/she should read it too.

Write between 100 and 120 words.

Dear Maria,

I thought that I should tell you about my favorite book and why you should read it.

My favorite book is called «mysteries in the town». The book is about five teenagers that have a dream of being detectives one day. These five teenagers made a team and they solve mysteries together. But one day a mini market gets robbed by two thieves. In the end the team solves the mystery of the robbery.

I think you should read it without a doubt because it has action and plot twists.
I think that you will love it once you read it.

love,
Chiara
